

Glenn Williams – BIO

Education:

- BA Biology, Chemistry, and English at Rhodes College-Memphis, TN
- Commissioned an Ensign, at US Navy Officer Candidate School—Newport, RI.
- MA English, Impact of Darwinism and evolutionary theory and science on 19th and 20th Century writers at University of Tennessee-Knoxville, TN
- Ph.D. studies English, Impact of Darwinism and evolutionary theory and science on 19th and 20th Century writers at University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, NC

Relevant work experience:

- Assistant to Chief of the Laboratory of Environmental Toxicology (LET), the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS), National Institutes of Health (NIH) at Research Triangle Park, NC.
- Environmental Protection Specialist at Health and Environmental Review Division (HERD), Office of Pesticides, Prevention and Toxic Substances (OPPTS), U.S. EPA.
- Policy and Program Analyst at Office of Technology Transfer and Research Support (OTTRS), in the Office of the Assistant Administrator/ Office of Research and Development (ORD), U.S. EPA.
- Program Analyst at Biopesticides and Pollution Prevention Division (BPPD), Office of Pesticide Programs, OPPTS, U.S. EPA.

Relevant Expertise:

- Extramural program manager handling contracts, grants, interagency agreements and cooperative agreements, valued at 6 to 10 million dollars per year with HERD and less amounts with other Divisions.
- In BPPD, the Pesticide Environmental Stewardship Program (PESP) and OPPTS, leader and expert for environmental indicators and measurement, integrated vegetation management (IVM), sector leader for Government, Utility Rights-of-Way and Technology Transfer programs; liaison to Armed Forces Pest Management Board (AFPMB), Department of Defense (DoD); Edison Electric Institute (EEI); the Center for Medical, Agricultural and Veterinary Entomology (CMAVE), Agriculture Research Service (ARS) U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), and the Regional IPM Centers sponsored by USDA.
- Deep interests in IVM/Greenways Programs for Utility Rights of Ways (ROWs); IPM strategies for red imported fire ants; restoration of the American Chestnut.

Recognition:

- Awarded numerous achievement awards at EPA, including Bronze, Silver and Gold Medals, the most recent being the EPA's Gold Medal, the Agency's highest award. The EPA's Administrator recognized Glenn for "outstanding leadership in the development of EPA's first Report on the Environment," (2004), the Administrator's initiative to develop and use environmental indicators "to better measure and report progress toward environmental and human health goals and to ensure the Agency's accountability to the public."

Glenn retired from the EPA in January 2005 after 31 years of federal service, and is currently working full-time on rehabbing his 100 year old country farm house in Mount Rainier, MD, volunteering with the American Chestnut Foundation—MD Chapter, IVM Partnership, and the National Park Service.